Surroundings & location

" Naxos may call themselves not only the largest island of the Cyclades, but also still has the highest mountain and the most extensive olive groves of the archipelago. But these superlative not enough by far to explain the fascination of the fertile island. These include also the long, pristine beaches around the island. Near the cities, they have a good infrastructure with many leisure and water sports facilities, but a few metres one is further surrounded by gentle dunes alone with the Sun and the sea. Since ancient times marble is mined on Naxos and processes – not only the famous gate testifies to the high art of the sculptor from Naxos. Also the archaeological museum and various, so-called Kouros, are worthwhile sightseeing destinations. Above all in Naxos town, Chora called, Life pulsates. The attractive old town below the Venetian Kastros invites for shopping and strolling in their idyllic corners, stairs and alleys. On the other hand one encounters in the Interior of the island mountains and rugged limestone cliffs, as it is found only in the Alps. You should yourself en route stopover in one of the original farming villages, where in a local Kafenio coffee alone the beauty of the surroundings to seem to make. "
