" Externally the cottage has traditional white weathboarding and is situated within the grounds of the owners Oast House. Inside, the spacious living/dining area is vaulted with spectacular honey coloured beams which continue through most of the rooms in the cottage giving it tremendous character and charm. Heating is underfloor and controlled by thermostats for the guests to use as required. The cottage is fully insulated as it is a recent conversion from a stable which housed Shire Horses. There is still the original oak framed doorway and its stable door hinges preserved within the cottage. "
